Atriaux is a leading provider of consulting, design, engineering, architecture, interior design, program management, construction, and technical services. Atriaux is a verified Service-Disabled, Veteran-Owned Small Business by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs.

Atriaux architects and interior designers understand that a client's building requirements are not an obstruction to artful design, but are a source of design inspiration, along with the project site and context, local culture and history, available technology and our own aesthetic input and philosophy. We strictly follow the age-old principle that the shape of a building should be primarily based upon its intended purpose – "form ever follows function".

Interior design is much more than making spaces beautiful. It is about people, and how they will live and work within their environment. We approach design as a collaborative process with our clients working to ensure that the spaces we create are functional, affordable, maintainable, and yes, beautiful. Our goal is to actively enhance the overall well-being and quality of life for the people who will occupy the space, both personally and professionally.
